A NUTRITIOUS DIET DOES NOT INCLUDE SUGARY DRINKS

Sugary Drinks include soft drinks, fruit juice, sports drinks, and energy drinks. For your health, please do not make soft drinks a part of your regular diet. A nutritious diet contains vitamins, minerals, and fiber. Sugary beverages don't include any of these nutrients. Some juices contain as much sugar and calories as soft drinks, which contain lots of sugar.

Diet drinks are not any better for us. High sugar or sugar substitute intake contributes to weight gain, especially in the area around your belly and organs, which contributes to an increased risk of type 2 diabetes and heart disease.

Many folks crave a soft drink or energy drink in the afternoon every day. Energy drinks contain lots of sugar and enough caffeine to raise blood pressure. Instead of your daily soft drink, diet soft drink, or energy drink, try unsweetened iced tea, sparkling water, or hot tea, or add a slice of fruit to your water.

Sugary Drinks and Diet Soft Drinks Increase our Risk for:

- Type 2 Diabetes - People who consume 1-2 cans of soda per day have a 26% greater risk of developing type 2 diabetes. Some studies show that drinking more artificially sweetened beverages in place of sugary beverages did not lessen the risk of diabetes.
- Heart Disease - In studies, consumption of one sugary beverage a day led to a 20% increase of having a heart attack or dying from a heart attack.
- Cancer - "Those who drank two or more sugary sodas per week were 87% more likely to develop pancreatic cancer than those who did not drink soda." - healthline.com
- Gout - Consumption of 1 can of sugary drink a day leads to a 75% increased risk "Fructose is the main carbohydrate known to increase uric acid levels."
- Poor Dental Health - "The acids in soda create an acidic environment in your mouth and the sugar feeds the harmful bacteria that reside there.
- Increased Risk of Dementia - "Research shows that any incremental increase in blood sugar is strongly associated with an increased risk of dementia."
- Poor Bone Health - Increased phosphate consumption negatively affects bone health.
